

Collaborative Leadership

Short Course – Face to Face

Make the most of the wisdom and experience of your whole team with practical skills and confidence.

Keen to collaborate but feel like you're missing the mark?

When you're responsible for a team, you need to get the job done, meet the bottom line and negotiate the most efficient use of resources. Collaborative leaders go further than this, because they don't do it alone.

With an emotionally resilient culture, you build stronger, more innovative people who can land on their feet successfully, no matter what happens.

We're better together.

What will you learn?

Extended leadership skills

- Build emotional resilience in your team to handle 'tricky' encounters
- Apply micro-skills for good management
- Awareness of your personal motivations and taking care of yourself
- Recognise your leadership style and its impact
- How you can change your practices to better match your values
- Increase your capacity to effect change and influence values

How we affect each other

- Explore unconscious team dynamics at work
- Organisational dynamics and our role in these
- Unspoken components of organisational culture
- Role theory – roles people play in teams and how we can avoid getting stuck in these

Working with your group or organisation

- Facilitate collaborative teamwork
- Foster confidence in taking risks to be genuine
- Understand organisational values and beliefs
